Crushed Men in An Air Shaft

Frightful Fall of 500 Feet in a Mine

WHEN A 400 POUND WEIGHT FELL ON TOP OF THEM.

FOUR LABORERS WERE KILLED.

Italians Met With Shocking Death on Thursday in Mine Near Brownsville—How it Happened.

Brownsville, Pa., Jan. 28.—Four Italian laborers were killed instantly this morning through being crushed under a 400 pound weight, following a terrible fall down an air shaft, a distance of 500 feet. The dead belonged to the day shift of laborers employed in sinking air shafts for the Briar Hill Coal company, along the National Pike, four miles from here. At 7 o'clock the four Italians got into a bucket to be taken down the air shaft. When they were down about 135 feet, the engineer noticed the pilot weight still hanging above and at once made efforts to stop the bucket and bring it back. The reversing of the machinery resulted in causing the weight to fall down the shaft. It smashed the bucket and men flat.

DEFENSE

In the Postoffice Conspiracy Trial Now
Has Its Inning at Washington

Washington, Jan. 28.—The case of the defense in the Machen-Groff-Lorenz conspiracy trial was opened this morning. In his opening statement to the jury ex-Judge Samuel Maddox, attorney for the Groffs, made clear his line of defense, which is that Dr. Lorenz was a partner with the Groffs in the manufacture of a patent letter box fastener and as such received 40 per cent of the profits thereon. Payments to Machen by Lorenz was in the discharge of old obligations, it is alleged, and had nothing to do with the sale of the Groff fastener to the government. Incidentally Judge Maddox mentioned the fact that it was Machen who reduced the price of the fasteners from $1.50 to $1.25.

JONES BILL

Provides Payment of $1000 by State of Costs of the Wickham-Coyner
Judicial Contest.

Representative Jones of Delaware, has introduced a bill to require the state to pay $1,000 of the costs incurred in the contest proceedings brought by E. M. Wickham against George Coyner growing out of the election of a common pleas judge in this sub-division two years ago. In making the finding in the contest case the circuit court held that the state should pay this share, and the bill introduced by Representative Jones simply seeks to carry their decree into effect at this time.

THREE

Children Burned to Death While Parents Were Absent.

New York, Jan. 28.—Three children were burned to death in a fire which broke out at 9 o'clock this morning in the basement of tenement No. 211 Madison street. The blaze started in the apartments of Hannah Cohen, probably from an overheated stove. Three Cohen children were alone in the rooms at the time, their father and mother being out, and all were suffocated and partially burned. After the flames had been put out their bodies were found. The dead are: Sarah, aged 9 months; Meyer, aged 2 years, and Louise, aged 7 years.

AS BAGGAGE

A ST. PAUL MAN DECIDED TO CARRY HIS WIFE,

But Cold Was Too Intense and Her
Outcry in the Box Attracted Attention.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—To save railroad fare from Mentor, Minn., to Buford, N. Dak., Mrs. Tillie Hanson was bundled into a box to be shipped as baggage on the ticket purchased by her husband.

There was a delay of two hours during which time the box with its human freight lay on the platform in the bitter cold. The woman was plucky and determined and stood the uncomfortable situation as long as possible. But fear of freezing to death, together with the pain of her cramped position caused her to make her presence known. Her cries were heard by the station agent and he opened the box to find the woman in a bad way from the suffering she had endured.

When the trick was exposed the baggage privileges of the man's ticket became practically valueless and he was told that he would have to get another ticket for the wife if she was to accompany him. What became of the pair is not known, as they left the station as soon as the woman was sufficiently thawed out to travel, and failed to return in time to take the train. It is presumed the Hansons were poor people, who lacked the funds to pay for transportation for the entire family, and adopted a plan whereby they might travel for less than the prescribed rates.

EMBEZZLER

Captured at Zanesville Wednesday and Will be Sent to Mansfield for Trial.

Zanesville, Jan. 28.—Officers Lane and McFarland made an important arrest Wednesday afternoon when they found Fred Meyers, who has been wanted for some time in Mansfield to answer to the charge of embezzlement. A message was received at police headquarters Monday asking them to look out for Meyers as the police at Mansfield had a warrant out for him.

Patrolmen McFarland and Lane were detailed on the case. They discovered that he had been working at the B. & O. shops for a few days and from there they traced him to his boarding place on Orchard street. He had left when the police arrived and they went back to the shops and arrested him about 2 o'clock.

Meyers had been for a time in Newark and had eluded the officers there. Since learning of his presence in Zanesville the officers have done some clever work and have succeeded in landing their man.

They communicated with Chief J. K. Weil of Mansfield and he will send officers for Meyers Thursday morning.

WORK

Of Removing Dead Bodies

From Harwick Mine is Impeded

SO FAR 24 OUT OF 174 HAVE BEEN RECOVERED.

ONLY VERY FEW ARE IDENTIFIED

Over One Hundred Volunteer Miners
Arrive at the Scene to Help Take Out the Victims.

Cheswick, Pa., Jan. 28.—Work in Harwick mine was slow last night so far as the recovery of bodies of victims of the terrible explosion was concerned.

At 9.30 o'clock this morning the hoisting cage again became wedged in the shaft by reason of the accumulation of ice. The removal of this obstruction is slow and dangerous.

Eighty-five bodies have been brought to the surface. Fifty-three have been prepared for burial, and the bodies placed in caskets. Twenty-seven lie in a blackened heap in the little school house awaiting the attention of undertakers, who at a late hour last night were thoroughly exhausted and stopped work until morning. Five bodies are at the bottom of the shaft and they will be brought up as soon as the cage can again be started.

Before noon today 125 volunteers, middle-aged and experienced miners, all of whom have passed through similar scenes, reached here from Monongahela City and immediately began assisting in the work of rescue in the mine. They are picked men and eminently fitted to assist. The gallant little band of rescuers that is now working with heroic effort to get the work completed is fast becoming exhausted but they work on uncomplainingly.

The dead bodies have already been in the mine 72 hours and the need for the utmost haste is readily apparent.

The bringing of the bodies from the mine has been temporarily stopped. There is no longer room for them in the school house—dead room—until at least some of those already there have been prepared for burial and removed.

The cage was operated a few minutes this morning and again stuck fast in the shaft. One body was brought out on the first trip. The last statement is that 86 bodies have been brought to the surface and 26 are at the bottom of the shaft ready to be brought out. The embalmers resumed their work at 10 o'clock this morning. Crowds are again flocking to the shaft and to the morgue houses. The throng seems to have become accustomed to the horrible environment and today there is less demonstration of emotion. This will probably break forth afresh, however, when the bringing out of bodies from the mine is resumed.

The north entry in the mine has been explored to the end. The bodies found there have been piled along the passage and can be brought out as soon as the shaft is cleared of ice.

The searchers are now in the south entry and sights awful to behold will be found there for it was in this entry that the explosion occurred, and bodies already found in this vicinity were in a horribly mutilated condition.

WATCHES STOLEN.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—This morning thieves broke the plate glass window in the jewelry department of Marshall Bros., and got away with a considerable amount of jewelry. The goods stolen included a number of watches, but no diamonds. This is the third robbery of this character that has taken place recently, window plate smashers having made two successful raids on the store of Pearson Brothers, securing booty to the amount of $2,500, mostly diamonds. The corner where the robbery took place this morning is the most protected in Chicago.

ARMY

Of Chinese Ready to Pro- tect Frontiers If War Breaks Out.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 28.—A dispatch to the newspaper Sviat from Shanghai, says that 50,000 Chinese are held in readiness to protect the frontiers in the event of war between Russia and Japan. The Sviat also asserts that Japan already has an armored train manned with quick firing guns on the railway between Seoul and Chemulpo, Korea.

London, Jan. 28.—A dispatch from Berlin to the Pall Mall Gazette today said: "Only today does Russia commence the drafting of an answer to Japan's latest note. All sinister reports are according to the best information untrustworthy. Official circles continue to consider that the two powers will eventually come to terms, although there is a possibility that the negotiations will still be somewhat protracted."

INTEREST

In Bechtel Murder Mystery Is Now Rapidly Dying Out.

Allentown, Pa., Jan. 28.—Interest in the Bechtel tragedy and the sensational trials of the aged mother and David Weisenberger and Alois Eckstein, rival lovers of Mabel Bechtel, the victim of the mysterious murder, is rapidly dying out. It is the consensus of opinion that the efforts now being made to run down the murderer will fail. Chief of Police Eastman today reiterated his previous opinion that the only plausible solution of the tragedy is that the girl was killed in her own home.

RACE

Against Death and the Latter Won--Mrs. Clark is Dead.

New York, Jan. 28.—Mrs. C. W. Clark, daughter-in-law of Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, died last night before her husband, who was breaking all records on the Santa Fe road on a special train, could reach her side. While Mr. Clark was in Jerome, Ariz., he received a dispatch telling him to hurry to New York; if he wanted to see his wife alive. He secured a special train and in spite of bad weather, averaged 42 miles an hour for 817 miles, six hours faster than the schedule time of the Santa Fe California limited.

Mr. Clark begged for a record trip between Chicago and New York, but the officers of the Lake Shore would not undertake to make better time than 20 hours, on account of the unfavorable weather.

Mr. Clark reached Chicago this afternoon, but he received a message during the night telling of his wife's death. Before her marriage to Mr. Clark in 1896, Mr. Clark was Mrs. Roberts of Helena, Mont.

RADIUM

Cures Malignant Growths on Face—

BLOW

Under Left Ear Was Struck

Before Murderous Brick Was Used

ANOTHER LINK IN THE CHAIN OF SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

MAN IS UNDER SURVEILLANCE

And Will be Arrested at Bedford as Soon as Evidence of a Tangible
Nature is Secured.

Bedford, Ind., Jan. 28.—Before the murderous brick was brought into play by the assassin, Miss Sarah Schaefer, the Latin teacher, was struck a powerful blow under the left ear. This blow rendered her unconscious and accounts for the fact that she did not scream. It was the kind of a blow often delivered by pugilists and expert boxers for a knockout. This important fact was developed when Drs. Freedland, Emery and Short appeared before the investigating committee. In a long talk, the doctors recalled a discoloration and a slight swelling under the left ear, as if made by a blow of a fist. This statement puts a new light on the case, and adds another link to a long chain of suspicious circumstances that surround a man of this city. He is under surveillance and will be arrested as soon as evidence of a tangible nature is secured. Late Wednesday night Mayor Smith received a telegram from Walter Malett, whose parents reside here, dated Louisville. Malett asked that a man be sent to Camp Brown, four miles from Louisville, to see him. He said he had important information as to the murder.

Joseph Heitger was before the committee for a long time. Heitger repeated his story and clung to the details as originally told. Heitger's friends are standing by him and he says he has a complete alibi.

The appearance of society women in the case has aroused much interest. People are wondering what questions are put to them. They are asked if they know of any suspicious circumstances; if they saw anyone on the fatal night; if they heard anything, and if they know of anything that might give a clue to the officers. The girl guests at the Guthrie leap year party on the night of the murder were asked when Jos. Heitger got there. They said he was escorted to the party by Miss Madge Bobbins. All their testimony leans to strengthen Heitger's alibi.

TRIAL

Of Tillbury Takes New Turn

Lawyer For Defendant Quit the Case

WHEN COACHMAN COULD NOT PRODUCE LETTERS.

NEW COUNSEL THEN APPOINTED,

After Which Court Adjourned—Big Crowd Was Present Expecting Sensational Letters.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The alleged blackmail case of Coachman James G. Tillbury, accused by Mrs. Hallis M. Thurston, a society woman, of trying to extort $12,500 from her took a sensational turn today in court.

Attracted by the possible production and reading of the letters which Coachman Tillbury claimed to have received from Mrs. Thurston and for whose suppression he is said to have demanded $12,500, great crowds fought with the bailiffs this morning in an attempt to secure admittance to Judge Dunne's court.

When court adjourned Wednesday afternoon Tillbury was on the stand, having stated that he would produce the 250 letters this morning. They were hidden in a tin box in the Thurston stables he claimed.

Court officers and attorneys for the prosecution made a thorough search and announced today that they had been unable to find the tin box.

Immediately upon the commencement of proceedings this morning the accused coachman, asked that he be permitted to make a statement to the court, and Judge Dunne granted the application. The court and Tillbury, then retired to the judge's chamber.

At the conclusion of the conference of 20 minutes Judge Dunne returned to the bench and announced that, at the request of the defendant, Tillbury's attorney, Emmett Clare, would be released from further duty and that the court would appoint Moritz Rosenthal to act in his place. Court then adjourned the case until 10 o'clock tomorrow in order to give the newly appointed counsel time to familiarize himself with the trial. The Courts announcement created a huge sensation and there was considerable speculation as to the reason. The prisoner informed Clare that he wanted to make a statement to the court, and Clare recommended silence, but Tillbury grew so persistent in his demand, threatening to make a scene, that the lawyer finally informed the court of Tillbury's desire.

Attorney Clare later stated that he had "dropped out of the case" because the defendant could not produce the alleged letters and he had no case to defend.

DOCTOR

Declared That the Drug Treatment in Cases of Pneumonia is of No Use.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—"Drug treatment is useless in cases of pneumonia. The medical profession, so far as medicines are concerned, can be of no assistance in the fight against this disease. The greater the profession will acknowledge this to the public and get to work to discover some specific to cure pneumonia patients the better for all concerned."

This statement by Dr. Arthur D. Evans, who stands high in the profession, stirred up the members of the Chicago Medical society at their meeting last night.

Several physicians sprang to their feet to protest. All had to admit, however, that there is no definite remedy known.

"Always at Her Best."

Paine's Celery Compound.

MRS. LEWIS MAY,
Most Successful Woman Insurance
Agent in New York.

111 West 15th St., New York City.
"My profession is that of life insurance agent, and for several years I made the best record of any woman working for my company. The work is very exciting, and I succeeded only by keeping constant watch on myself, as friends warned me that I might have nervous prostration. In this business, as in many others, success depends almost entirely upon how you are feeling. A tired, low-spirited solicitor might as well stay at home.
"I used to take office in large quantities to keep my brain clear and my spirits up, but I KNEW THIS WOULD INJURE MY DIGESTION AND MY NERVES. I DISCOVERED THAT PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND GAVE ME JUST THE STRENGTH I NEEDED BY KEEPING MY NERVES AND KEEPING ME IN GOOD HEALTH."
"I GO OUT TO MY WORK EVERY MORNING FEELING BRIGHT AND CHEERFUL AND CONFIDENT. If I did not I would never be able to make the income that I do."
"I suppose few people who have not been cured of diseases send you letters, but though I have never been sick, I speak of it. I thought what a great help Paine's Celery Compound had been to me when I was failing off yesterday morning, and I decided I would send you this letter.

"IT HAS BEEN WORTH ACTUAL MONEY TO ME. AS I DO NOT WISH TO TALK WOULD MAKE HALF MY PRESENT INCOME IF I DID NOT HAVE IT."—MRS. LEWIS MAY.
It is men and women who are "always at their best" who have made and are making this country what it is.
Not all the busy people are burning out their nerves. There are thousands who understand that force must be supplied to the nerves if they are to keep their bodily health. And they take Paine's Celery Compound to supply it. The world needs more of such people.
Paine's Celery Compound is keeping thousands of people well—so well that few of them ever think of sending in a written acknowledgment of the benefit.

"THROUGHOUT YOUR BODY FOR HEALTH OR SICKNESS THE NERVE SYSTEM IS KING."

Barber Bill

The proposed bill now before the Ohio Legislature to regulate the barbering business of this state, provides for a system of licensed barbers, who must undergo a regular examination by a competent board of examiners before being permitted to exercise their trade, is exciting considerable discussion among the barbers of Newark. There seems to be all kinds of opinions as to the merits or demerits of the proposed law, though the consensus of opinion is that some legislation is needed on the matter.

There may or may not be war between Russia and Japan. But, however that may be, the world can never count on peace until Russia's arms are attained or her power crushed.

The tariff policy of the Democratic party is well known. It does not propose to overthrow business conditions. It has no intention of molesting legitimate business concerns. It will not pass laws which will unjustly deprive anyone of a dollar. But if the people give it the opportunity it will lower the tariff schedules to such a plane as will give honest competition a chance, put a stop to the dangerous tendency toward centralization and make it impossible for the few to fatten at the expense of the many.

That another push is to be made for a ship subsidy is clear. But the chances are that nothing will be done at the present session beyond the possible creation of a commission to consider the whole question of our mercantile marine. However, the discussion will go steadily on. While we do not believe that trade follows the flag, it is undoubtedly true that with American steamers drumming up trade all over the world our commerce would increase. So we all want a merchant marine. But we do not believe that it can be or ought to be had through a subsidy. Give us freer trade relations with the rest of the world, make the shipping industry profitable by giving it free play, allow our people to buy ships wherever they please and sail them under the American flag, and the merchant marine will take care of itself.

PARKER'S CABINET.

(Enquirer.)

One of the "objections" raised to Judge Parker, of New York, is the alleged statement of J. B. Stanchfield that should the Judge be re-nominated and elected to the Presidency he would appoint David B. Hill to his Cabinet, probably making him Secretary of the Treasury.

It is of some importance to mention in this connection that the objector is the Springfield Republican. That journal wants to know what Messrs. Cleveland and Bryan would think of Mr. Hill in the Cabinet.

Perhaps nobody of consequence cares what the Republican would think about it, and there are even some Democrats who would be indifferent to the opinions of Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Bryan.

But all this is purely speculative. Mr. Hill might spin a Calinet position or any other place in which he might be set down as some great man's clerk. And, perhaps, Judge Parker has no thought of appointing him in any event. The Judge is not talking for publication. He has preserved his self-possession admirably. He is apparently content to let things take their course. And no editor of the unregenerate opposition can "smoke him out" by trumping up a Cabinet for him.

A TIP FOR ROOSEVELT.

(Philadelphia Record.)

Besides that no accidental President has succeeded to the office by choice of the people is the further ominous fact that no eager aspirant for the Presidency has ever been elected. On the other hand, the most successful Presidential candidates, as well as Presidents, have been men who scarcely dreamed of attaining the office until they were nominated by conventions of their party and elected.

ROOSEVELT

Told by Hanna That the Only Man Who Could Defeat Him Was Himself.

Washington, Jan. 28.—An effort has been made by friends of President Roosevelt to create the impression that Mr. Hanna had already pledged himself to support the President for the nomination this year. There is absolutely no foundation for such a story. Mr. Hanna has never pledged himself to the President except to promise him assistance in making his administration successful so long as it follows the lines laid down by Mr. McKinley. Within 10 minutes after Mr. Roosevelt had taken the oath of office at Buffalo, Mr. Hanna called on him at his hotel and volubly extended to him that assurance, but he did not promise to support him for the Presidential nomination in 1904. Some time later, when Mr. Roosevelt started a political discussion with him at the White House Mr. Hanna told him that the only man who could defeat him (Mr. Roosevelt) for the nomination this year was Mr. Roosevelt himself. By that the Senator meant nothing more than that the President would either assure his own nomination by his personal and official acts or would deport himself in such a way that the party would deem it advisable to select another man.

TEAM WORK

BY NEWARK HIGH SCHOOL WINS VICTORY.

Zanesville Basket Ball Team Smoothed by Fast Newark Five, on Wednesday Night.

In one of the best games of basket ball ever put up by a Newark team the High school five literally overwhelmed the Zanesville Stars, Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, by a score of 66 to 10. The visitors were not only outclassed but seemed to be dazed by the lightning work of the locals, whose accurate scoring of goals was made possible by the best system of team work ever seen on the Y. M. C. A. floor. The team's passing was superb and the ball was carried by them so rapidly that it seemed almost impossible for the visitors to follow it at all. Beecher's work at forward was brilliant throughout and at times little short of phenomenal. During the evening he made 13 baskets by accurate throws from every angle and for various distances. He seemed to be ubiquitous and when he received the ball from any of his four team mates would generally score, at times electrifying the fair sized audience with his great work. Hart also did fine work, getting nine baskets, some of his throws being of the brilliant kind.

The work of these two in point of points scored stood out in bold relief, but much of it was made possible by the cool and accurate passing of Pine, the right forward, who played a first class game throughout the contest. Moore and Doughty were also bulwarks of defense and aggressive in offense and are entitled to a great share of the honor for the victory.

The Zanesville boys put up a good game, but the Newark team played as the Clay City five have never seen before, and the latter's good work is eclipsed.

After the game which was absolutely free from fouls, the visiting team was tendered a banquet at Kuster's by the victors.

HANNA'S POSITION

Which is Causing So Much Worry to Roosevelt

The Ohio Senator Not an Avowed Candidate, but Won't Refuse the Nomination--A Fight on Over Certain Ohio Officers, and Roosevelt is Between Two Fires.

Washington, Jan. 28.—"I have no personal ambition and no interest to serve other than the good of the party and the country."

That sentence has appeared in something like 3,500 personal letters which Senator Hanna has sent to Republicans in nearly every state in the Union, who have been urging him to permit the use of his name in connection with the Presidential nomination that is to be handed out at the Chicago convention next June. There is a significance in those words which some of the Ohio man's admirers have overlooked, but which others seem to have grasped. Those who believe they understand the meaning of it construe it as indicating that while Mr. Hanna is not an avowed candidate for the Presidency, he will not undertake to prevent the convention from placing his name at the head of the ticket should the delegates desire to do so.

Confidential advices have been received here which tend clearly to show that some of the shrewdest Republican politicians of the country have come to the conclusion that such is the proper interpretation to be placed on the Ohio Senator's language. The Senator has assented again and again that he was not a candidate. But the fact remains that Mr. Hanna has never said he would not be the nomination if the convention saw fit to give it to him, and his friends say it is not to be presumed that he would repudiate such a great honor.

Evidences are beginning to accumulate that influential politicians in many of the great states are proceeding upon that hypothesis and this probably accounts for many of the instances where instructions are not to be given to delegates to the national convention.

This is particularly true of Indiana, where Governor Durbin has been stating publicly that "Mr. Hanna is a patriot and is ready to respond to any call which his party or country makes upon him." Mr. Durbin is one of the men who seem to have comprehended the real significance of the quotation given above. In Ohio prominent Republicans are beginning to realize this fact, as the determination in certain districts not to instruct indicates. This also applies to other states, such as New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

There are several collateral phases to the political situation which are attracting a great deal of attention just now in Washington.

One of the most interesting of these is the evident desire of the President not to make any appointments in Ohio which would tend to antagonize Senator Hanna and endanger his own chances for the nomination. Senator Foraker is manifesting considerable impatience because the President has refused to countenance at this time the dismissal of Collector of Customs Ed Zurlhorst, of Sandusky, and because he has declined thus far to act upon the senior Senator's recommendations with respect to postoffices at Lima and Napoleon.

Senator Hanna puts himself on record as being opposed to the compromise proposition of his colleague, that Mr. Foraker name the new Postmaster at those two cities, while the junior Senator selects those at New Philadelphia and Canal Dover. The members of these offices are friends of Mr. Hanna, and he sees no reason why Postmasters Hall and Clowell of Lima and Napoleon, respectively, should be turned out to make room for two other Republicans who are no better party men and would take no better care of the postal business than they. The President apparently desires to oblige Senator Foraker, who seems to be pressing him rather hard, but is afraid he will make a blunder of it.

He would like to see the contest between the two Senators settled, not because he has any personal interest in the matter, but because he does not want to incur the displeasure of Mr. Foraker, who has been a consistent Roosevelt supporter for the last two years. At the same time, if he follows the advice of some of his friends, he will not appoint the men who have been recommended by Senator Foraker at the successors of Postmasters Hall and Clowell. But if he disregards their counsel he will create a situation in Ohio which will endanger his Presidential prospects far more than anything thus far has happened, for then an open rupture between him and Mr. Hanna will most certainly follow.

Miss Ivy Langham is a pretty American girl who threatens to be the most interesting woman in official society. She is the sister of Baroness Stophers, the American wife of the new German Ambassador, and, as she is spending this season with her sister in Washington and is a member of the German Embassy household, her name was given a place on the official list issued by the State Department as supposed to be reserved for diplomats. Some of Uncle Sam's officials are regarded this as a serious breach of official etiquette and threaten to protest.

DELIRIOUS

From Burning Fever a Typhoid Patient Dashed Out of the Hospital and Will Die.

Zanesville, O., Jan. 28—With the thermometer at zero Henri Yarnft, a typhoid fever patient whose temperature was 107, in a perfectly nude condition dashed through a window in the City hospital and ran down Main street to the Sherman house, where he was caught by the police.

Yarnft, bleeding from a score of severe cuts and running like a wild man, struck terror to the hearts of a party of women, who with their escort, were just leaving a ball room in Olympia hall just as the insane fever patient dashed by.

Yarnft's condition was critical before he made his wild midnight run, and he will die.

PNEUMONIA SEASON

How the Disease Develops and How to Prevent It.

Neglect of colds is responsible for more deaths than the whole list of diseases. Pneumonia is quickly developed at this season of the year and unless you cure the cold right you are in great danger of being taken down with the disease. When you take "cough balsams" or "syrups" containing deadly drugs that weaken the body, you are inviting Pneumonia.

You will understand how that is just as well as your doctor, if you stop to think that over 99 per cent of these mixtures depend for their effect entirely upon the opium, morphine and other poisonous drugs they contain—an effect which is simply a temporary deadening of the nerves at the expense of the weakening of the body.

The system thus weakened is not able to drive off the visiting germs of pneumonia—and the cold reaches the linings of the lungs, they become inflamed and congested, and you are down with pneumonia; if your system has been too much weakened by poisonous drugs you may not get up again because it is a question whether or not you have fighting power enough left in your body to fight off the disease.

As has been said in this paper Father John's Medicine cures colds and prevents pneumonia—it drives off the cold and gives vital force to the system so that pneumonia can be fought off; it strengthens the body because it is all pure nourishment, without opium, morphine, or any of the poisonous drugs contained in the over 99 per cent of "cough balsams" and "syrups" referred to above.

While this is written to call your attention to Father John's Medicine—which an eminent specialist prescribed for the late Rev. Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., 59 years ago, and which is not a patent medicine—what we have told you about pneumonia is authentic and important for you to know. It may save your life.

We know what Father John's Medicine will do—has done for 50 years—and we want you to know also that we refund the money for any cough or cold that it cannot cure—for body building, tonic and all that we claim for it. If you are not satisfied with the results we refund your money. Endorsed by physicians, by the clergy, hospitals and the thousands who have taken it.

In the coat pocket was found a book containing the address, "Samuel Flowers, Centenary, Buckingham county, Virginia."

RICH LAND

In Mercer County Left to Former Slaves Has Developed Immense Value.

Celina, O., Jan. 28—A copy of a will filed here by John Deam, the colored attorney of Indianapolis, laying the foundation for a legal battle for the possession of 3,600 acres of Mercer county land valued at $250,000, has created considerable excitement among the farmers in the southern part of the county.

John Randolph, a wealthy slave owner of Roanoke, Va., died leaving an immense estate to his former slaves.

William Leigh was made executor of his will and was directed to purchase ten acres of land for every one of his 360 slaves, somewhere in the northern states. Leigh decided to purchase the land in Marion, Franklin, Granville and Jefferson townships and locate the slaves in the southern part of this county.

He had the title of the land put in his name as executor and started with the freed slaves on a canal boat at Cincinnati for their new home.

The party on arriving at New Bremen was met by an indignant crowd of farmers and was driven back and not allowed to land. Most of the slaves returned to Virginia, but some afterward took possession of their land. It is now claimed that Leigh had no right under the will to take title to the land and that it should have been given to the ex-slaves and that the people who purchased it from Leigh or from squatters have no valid rights to it.

Attorney Deam, who filed the will is one of the alleged heirs of the Randolph slaves and promises to engage in a long legal fight for its possession. The property has doubled in value on account of its gas and oil deposits.

PERUNA

To be Added to O. S. U.'s College Yell if Dr. Hartman Furnishes New Athletic Field.

Columbus, O., Jan. 28—To add Peruna to the Ohio State university yell and to name the proposed athletic field in honor of Dr. Hartman was the offer made to the president of the Peruna Drug company by a member of State's athletic board.

The proviso in the letter sent Dr. Hartman was to the effect that he provide the funds with which to build and equip the field in question. For over two years the university athletic board has been trying to raise money to build a new athletic field, the one in present use being inadequate to the needs of the university. It was upon these conditions that the letter to Dr. Hartman was framed. Should the proposition be accepted State's students would in the future, when elated with the victories of the teams, render their college yell as follows:

Wahoo! Wahoo!

Rip, zip, Baroo!

I yell, I yell.

RUSSIA vs. JAPAN

Causes Leading Up to the Present Condition in the East—Characteristics of the Russians and the Japs

IN reviewing the present trouble between Japan and Russia and its probable outcome it is necessary to consider the motive actuating each of the parties to the conflict. To Russia a war with Japan—or with any other country, for that matter—would mean territorial or other aggrandizement and nothing more. To Japan war with Russia means national existence almost, for Japan, right or wrong, has constituted herself the guardian of the east and wishes to appear before the world as the cradle of the modernization of the orient. She has a quarrel with Russia not only because she dislikes the czar's methods with reference to herself, but also because, if she should permit him to go on as he has begun in the east, Japan will be forced forever into the background. Thus it is that the mikado today has the sympathy of practically the entire civilized world. He is standing for the rights of other nations besides his own, whereas Russia stands for the rights of but one nation—Russia.

A New Japan.

Not that Japan likes Russia. Far from it. Indeed, she has good cause to feel anything but friendly toward the "bear." She has never forgiven Russia for the contemptible part that country played in the settlement between China and Japan. When the Chino-Japanese war began, there was not one military man out of a hundred who did not think that China would project her horrids into Korea and literally sweep the timorous Japs into the sea. Those who called attention to the fact that Japan had succeeded in getting together the nucleus of a very respectable navy were met with the statement that China had been doing something along that line herself, and that even on the sea she was apt to demonstrate that numbers would count over the slight additional intelligence which it was conceded that Japan possessed. The battle of the Yalu put to rout the supporters of the Chinese navy, and the fight at Port Arthur disposed of whatever consideration the Chinese army might previously have been entitled to. But, after all, it was not that China's progress had been overestimated. Japan's simply had been underestimated. In short, it was the same old China which went to war, but a different, a very different, Japan.

Strong on Land and Sea.

When Japan, flushed with victory and anxious to emulate the example of the more liberal larger nations in her peace settlement, suggested terms some time, but it is certain that she sought to break down the predominating influence of Japan in the Hermit Kingdom. Indeed, she went much further than the proper regard for the rights of an ostensibly friendly nation should have permitted her to go. Naturally Japan wanted to know what she was about. Then began negotiations concerning Korea. Russia actually had the assurance to propose to Japan terms with reference to Korea, a country with which, so far as the facts are generally understood, she has as much right to interfere as the United States would have, the position of "watchdog of Korea" by common consent among the nations of the world having long since been accorded to Japan by reason of her proximity and later because of her having fairly won the distinction in her war with China. But the purpose of the Russian government had been accomplished, and Korea appeared to be the issue, while Manchuria was, at least temporarily, forgotten.

Japan. Perry's mission was to overawe the Japanese into extending to American ships the privileges then enjoyed by the Dutch only. History does not say to what lengths he was prepared to go should his show of force prove insufficient, the fact being that the mere sight of the warships was enough to convince the shogun of the expediency of acceding to Perry's wishes. Accordingly, much against the trade of the mighty daimios, American trade was granted access to two ports. As might have been expected, the European powers were not slow to profit by the example, forcing similar concessions until, little by little, the shogun had surrendered the domestic trade of the country to the control of the treaty powers. Out of this state of affairs ultimately grew the revolution of 1868, in which several of the most influential among the daimios took charge of the person of the young mikado, Mutsuhito, declared their intention of restoring him to full power as the real ruler of their strength, as may be imagined, was thus and again tested during that trying march in the summer of 1890. Their ability was at all times in evidence, but perhaps never more so than during the storming of Tientsin. Quiet, orderly, polite, earnest—such are some of the qualities of these same tiny warriors who never fail to salute the officers of every nation, endure without murmur all that military life entails, accept thankfully their stipend of $1.50 a month and can live and thrive on a diet in which rice is the prevailing staple, and little enough of that. Yet the Japanese soldier does not retrograde into a more fighting machine. He knows how to think, he knows how to act as occasion demands. In the individual, as in the race, is found that faculty which works so largely for the greatness of a nation—the faculty of mental initiative.

The Russian Army.

And now for a glance at the other side of the picture. It would be futile to contend that the Russian army is not one of the most powerful war engines the world has ever seen. Equally absurd would it be to hesitate to admit that the Russian soldier, from the old world hypertechanical standpoint, is not one of the best that military science is capable of producing.

Russia has the greatest army on earth. It consists of over 1,000,000 men in times of peace, which may easily be increased to 4,000,000 in the event of war. The magnitude of the czar's military establishment may be realized if one considers the fact that the Russian army even on a peace footing contains more officers alone than the American army has of both officers and men.

On a peace footing, as at present constituted, the armies of the czar are made up of about 62 per cent infantry, 12 per cent cavalry, 14 per cent artillery, 3 per cent engineers, 3 per cent commissariat and departmental troops and 6 per cent Cossacks. These proportions give but little idea, however, of the relative importance of the various arms of the service. While by no means the largest numerically, the most conspicuous and effective portion of the army is the cavalry, together with the kindred though irregular body of troops known as the Cossacks. In fact, Russia places chief reliance on her war horses. Of these there are 4,000,000 in the empire that have had actual training in the army and that can be requisitioned in case of emergency for cavalry duty.

A Mighty War Engine.

And the horsemen! They have no equal in the world, these wild riders of Russia. It is probably due to the great plains and the vast distances to be traversed that the Muscovites are veritably reared in the saddle. Certainly there are no other people who so love the horse, who so cultivate him and who have such mastery over him. As a result the Slavic empire has almost half of the horses of the world. As another result the men ride like cowboys.

Every year a million men become eligible to enter the Russian army. As only about 300,000 are required, over composed of the peasant or former serf class, the members of which are illiterate, unassuming, stolid, slavish, but without hardy, courageous and singularly devoted. In fact, no nation on earth has the solidarity that marks Russia. With all its divergent elements, it is still the most completely knit together of any empire now in existence. The Muscovite is taught the submergence of self. Obedience is the prime virtue. It is drilled into the citizen that he exists only for the czar.

Muscovite Peculiarities.

The Russian is gregarious in a marked degree. The communal life has existed in his villages from time immemorial. This sort of rough, elemental altruism is carried into the army and is in fact its distinctive spirit. It marks the Muscovite soldier as peculiar. It gives him a certain stolid bravery which was recognized in the famous remark of Napoleon that "it is not enough to kill a Russian soldier; you must also push him over."

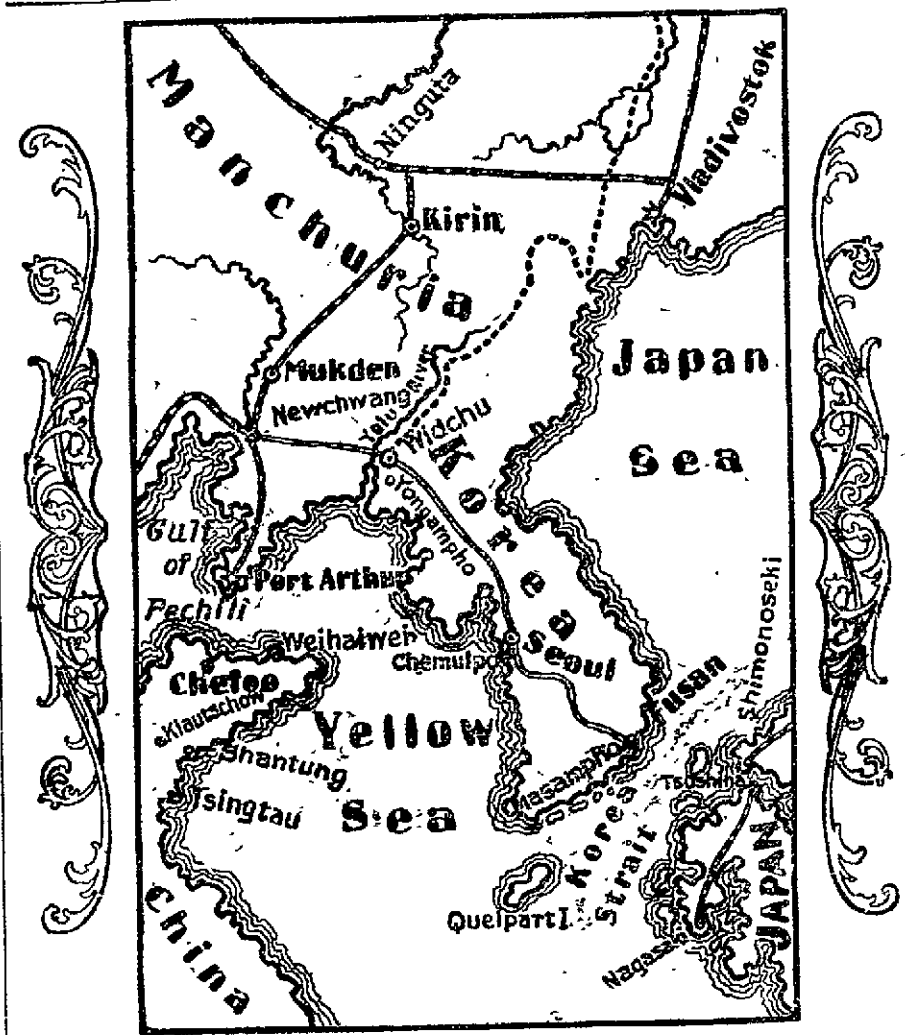

This habit of personal effacement, of blind obedience, of almost slavishness, is shown nowhere more plainly than in the manner of the private soldier in addressing an officer. He stands rigidly at "attention" with his hand at his cap throughout the entire conversation. He never presumes to answer a question with a direct "yes" or "no," but with a qualified "quite so" or "not exactly so." He invariably uses the title of "your excellency" or "your illustriousness" or "your nobility" or even "your high nobility."

Russia, the Undefeated.

The diet of the Muscovite when in the field is simplicity itself. It is largely vegetarian. Cabbage soup, potatoes, peas, beans, macaroni and various kinds of porridges are the staple foods. These, with the black rye bread and occasionally a small amount of meat, make up the army fare. Yet, like the Roman soldier, who also lived on a vegetable diet, these men can endure hardships such as the ordinary civilian can scarcely conceive. The "moving kitchen" is one feature of the Russian camp that is unique and that is being copied by other European armies. It is what its name implies, a veritable kitchen on wheels that accompanies the army on all its marches, as indispensable as its camp equipments, its artillery and its ammunition—in fact, it supplies the ammunition for the human war machines, furnishing dynamic force that when released in time of battle is hurled against the enemy with terrific effect.

Russia has never been defeated, if the rather inconclusive Crimean war be excepted. Steadily, resistlessly, she has spread her dominion over Finland, over Poland, over Turkey, over Manchuria. Even the matchless genius of a Napoleon was unequal to the task of penetrating this human mass. No nation of either ancient or modern times has ever been so unified, so organic.

In the matter of navies there is little to choose between Russia and Japan. Russia has more ships, but many of them are locked up in the Black sea, and many more of them dare not leave the Baltic. Then, too, while a fair por-

MAP OF KOREA AND VICINITY.

Korea strait, between Korea and Japan, is only 100 miles wide, and midway between the two countries are the well fortified Tsu islands, owned by Japan. This narrow strait, dominated by the forts and fleet of Japan, is Russia's avenue of communication between Vladivostok on the north, and Port Arthur, the southern terminus of her Chinese colony in Korea, is rapidly being connected by rail with Seoul through the efforts of the Japanese government. There is also a short line between Seoul and its seaport, Chemulpo. On the map the dotted lines represent the boundaries between Korea and Manchuria and between Manchuria and Russia, the parallel lines uncompleted railroads and the checked lines railroads already built.

But, shrewd as are the czar's diplomats, the mikado has about him a few men, like Ito and Komura, who know a bit about diplomacy themselves. They had permitted the Russians to go on and on and on assuming that the Japs had forgotten that Manchuria is still on the map. They were merely biding their time. Therefore when the Russian statesmen, in response to one of their notes dealing with Korea and the "issue" there, received a communication from Tokyo bodily shifting the whole discussion back to Manchuria, whence it had originally begun and where it really belonged, there was but one thing to do—assume to ignore it. This they did, and this Japan refused to accept as being a warrantable position on the part of Russia. As Russia could not well afford to back down after having been checkmated in what she had regarded as a very clever bit of land grabbing, a clash then became inevitable.

When two nations spring at each other's throat, figuratively speaking, there are more things to be considered in speculating upon the probable outcome, than mere numbers of men or ships. After all, it is the individual who brings success. American soldiers are regarded as being of more value in the field than the soldiers of any nation, and yet from the strictly technical standpoint they are probably the poorest soldiers in the world. Except for the handful of men who constitute the regular army, the United States has no troops ready to do field duty as it is understood in Germany and Russia and even in France. The conditions render that unnecessary. But, as has been demonstrated on several occasions, the American in six months is converted into the most valuable military man the world has ever seen. That is because he is a thinking individual. Your well drilled man is all right so long as he has officers to lead him, but the moment the head disappears the army becomes a disorganized mob, not knowing what to do or how to do it. With the American the officer's principal duty is to let his men know what he wishes them to do. That is all that is necessary. The men find a way to do it, and the officers don't bother to inquire too closely into the methods which brought about the desired result.

Japan's Transformation. But even the American soldier is in a measure put in the shade by the Jap, for the latter is full to bursting of enthusiasm born of his self assumed directorship of civilization in the east. Regarded as soldiers, the Japanese are so new that the paint hasn't yet worn off. But they have the right spirit, and they have demonstrated to the world that they are in earnest. A brief retrospect just here may serve to show the really wonderful strides made by the Japanese.

From the appearance of Perry and his fleet in Yedo bay, July 8, 1853, say, be said to date the awakening of Japan. Perry's mission was to overawe the Japanese into extending to American ships the privileges then enjoyed by the Dutch only. History does not say to what lengths he was prepared to go should his show of force prove insufficient, the fact being that the mere sight of the warships was enough to convince the shogun of the expediency of acceding to Perry's wishes. Accordingly, much against the trade of the mighty daimios, American trade was granted access to two ports. As might have been expected, the European powers were not slow to profit by the example, forcing similar concessions until, little by little, the shogun had surrendered the domestic trade of the country to the control of the treaty powers. Out of this state of affairs ultimately grew the revolution of 1868, in which several of the most influential among the daimios took charge of the person of the young mikado, Mutsuhito, declared their intention of restoring him to full power as the real ruler of two-thirds of the available must be exempted or excused. Every district has its recruiting board and makes up its quota for the various arms of the service. The soldier in the ranks receives only about $4 per year, is sometimes whipped to death, must give unquestioning obedience and is inured to a life of privations and hardships such as are known in scarcely any other army in the world. This, however, is not felt so much by the Slav as it would be by other races, for he has been used to these things from his youth up. The mass of the soldiery is portion of Russia's warships are strictly modern constructions, practically all of Japan's are as up to date as it is possible to make them. Russia has had no fighting experience with her new navy; Japan has had both men and ships tested under fire. And, most important of all, the theater of the present conflict is half around the world from Russia proper, while Japan is operating against Russia's fleets in the east will be at the same time patrolling her own coast and menacing the Atlantic ports owned or controlled by her foe.

which were so generous that China naturally would have been delighted to accept them. Russia coolly stepped in and practically told Japan that she should have nothing for her trouble. If she cared to take Formosa, all well and good, but the smallest piece of the Chinese mainland—never. Russia professed to be acting in the interest of the integrity of the Chinese empire, but she deceived no one.

Japan was mad. She was ready to fight and would have fought right there and then had it not been that at the head of her government there were men thoroughly equipped to hold their own in diplomacy with the best European masters of the art of negotiating facts. These men decided to hide their time, and ever since Japan has war) right at the door of Manchuria, that the czar should let the world know his intentions with regard to the great Chinese province. Russia's only reply to this was to rush extra troops to her ports in the east and incidentally to foment small disturbances in Manchuria in order to demonstrate that it was not yet safe for her to leave. Meanwhile the mikado became insistent—so insistent, in fact, that the powers that be at St. Petersburg deemed it necessary to create a diversion. This "diversion" was characteristically Russian. Affecting to regard the Manchurian matter as a "res adjudicata," Russia began to enmesh upon Korean territory. Just what steps she took in that direction the methods of diplomacy will not permit of our knowing for
